ALREADY for the past two months, ocean-going vessels of up to 25,000 tons have been penetrating as far as 2,200 miles into the heart of the North American continent by way of the new St. Lawrence Seaway. Incidentally, it may be recalled that one of the first ships to make the steep inland voyage — there is a climb of 525 ft. between the first and the last of the seven east-west locks — was the Israeli freighter Tamar, which last May sailed from the port of Haifa to the new-born seaport of Chicago. The ceremonial opening of the Seaway, performed on Friday by Queen Elizabeth on behalf of Canada, and by President Eisenhower for the United States, served to draw public attention to what is surely one of the biggest feats of engineering ever tackled by man. But it cannot honestly be said that the world at large has shown any real excitement over the whole thing.

THIS symptom of excitement is symptomatic of the negative, escapist mood from which so many people seem to be suffering, now more than ever. The creation of an eighth ocean with a frontage of 8,000 miles, the excavation of 12 million cubic yards of soil, the pouring of three million cubic yards of concrete, the erection of a 2,300-ft. long power dam with a daily production of 1,800,000 kilowatts, the expenditure of more than $1,000m. — all these things are, after all, not an everyday event even in this age of space and half of the 20th century. But because what was a major surgical operation to the face of the earth went off painlessly, because it was carried through quietly by two Great Powers enjoying ideal neighborhood relations, because not only Canada and the U.S. but all maritime nations will benefit by it, no deep interest, let alone passion, was aroused. It would have been different had slave labor been employed, or had calamitous accidents occurred. It might have been different had the enterprise been carried out on the moon or another celestial body well away from the familiar earth. Men seem to be tiring of this planet.

WHATEVER the immediate reaction, however, the long-term consequences of the St. Lawrence Seaway are what really matter. International commerce is certain to be greatly stimulated. Among other things, the day when the remote American Midwest will become more accessible to European and other countries, including, of course, Israel, which are anxious to increase their exports to the dollar zone and can no longer deliver their merchandise there more cheaply, that is, more competitively.

BUT there is another important aspect, or rather potentiality, in the new link-up. Canada, which has not been lacking in statesmanlike imagination in her approach to East-West relations and for that matter, to Israel-Arab problems, may well be prompted now to broaden her ground in the field of assistance to the underdeveloped nations. If Canada had not served notice that she would construct the St. Lawrence Seaway entirely on her own, if the U.S. had not quickly decided to join in the enterprise, the project might still today have been in the blueprint stage. A Super-Great Power is liable to be hampered by inhibitions from her approach to East-West relations and for that matter, to Israel-Arab problems, may well be prompted now to broaden her ground in the field of assistance to the underdeveloped nations. If Canada had not served notice that she would construct the St. Lawrence Seaway entirely on her own, if the U.S. had not quickly decided to join in the enterprise, the project might still today have been in the blueprint stage. A Super-Great Power is liable to be hampered by inhibitions from her approach to East-West relations and for that matter, to Israel-Arab problems, may well be prompted now to broaden her ground in the field of assistance to the underdeveloped nations.

ALL speculation apart, the St. Lawrence Seaway established a new vital artery in human communications. And in a world that must ultimately discover unity or perish, that is truly something to get excited about.

68 Die in Air Crash Said To Be Impossible

OLGIATE OLONA, near Milan (Reuters). — Rescue workers and air experts moved into the still-smoking wreckage of a crashed American airliner on Saturday to check the identity of the 68 victims and probe the mystery of the crash.

By Saturday evening all the bodies had been recovered, but only 30 — most of them still fastened to their seats by their safety belts — were identified.

An Israeli, Herman Carmeli, whose address was not given, was one of the passengers killed. (Mr. Moshe Shalom, former President of Hadassah, had been booked to return home on the ill-fated plane, but changed his plans at the last moment.)

Major Arcangelo Paolotti, commander of Milan's Malpensa Airport, who is directing operations in the rain-swept valley clearing, said it was "an impossible accident" — the evidence we have seen to tell us it happened for reasons which are logically impossible by the laws of physics.

A member of the Italian Air Force enquiry commission added that the three explosions reported to have shaken the plane as it crashed in a violent storm just after leaving for Chicago from Milan airport on Friday night, were typical of a plane struck by lightning, "but theoretically airliners like this are completely lightning proof."

Life Survivors

All aboard were killed when the plane, a Transworld Airlines Lockheed Super Constellation, crashed near an old farmhouse in a valley of orchards and vineyards, about 20 miles from the industrial villages of Olgiate Olona and Marnate, a kilometre apart.

Airlights hanging from poles along the road, softly on charred remains lying around a small valley clearing. Passengers and crew were unrecovered fragments lying in the blackened skeletons of their seats. Broken pieces of the aircraft were scattered over a 200-acre area.

The main wreckage lay in the kitchen garden of a farmhouse miraculously unharmed, 20 metres from the stream which trickles through the muddy valley bottom.

In the farm kitchen, 45-year-old Giuseppe Dallara, who was roofing a house on the other side of the valley when the plane crashed, said: "I heard a noise when the clouds. Suddenly there was a blinding flash. I looked up and saw the wing of a plane hurtling down the valley — as far as eye could see, straight on top of my house."

Czechs to Treat Wounded FLN Rebels

PRAGUE (Reuters). — The Czech news agency, Cetska, said on Saturday that a group of fighters of the Algerian Liberation Army (FLN) have arrived here at the invitation of the Czech Central Council of Trade Unions.

Cetska added, "They will receive medical treatment for wounds sustained in the struggle for liberation of their country and recuperate in sanatoria and spas." The group arrived on Sunday.

France, Italy Ask Urgent F.M. Talks

ROME (Reuters). — President de Gaulle of France on Saturday ended his official five-day visit with a 30-minute audience with the Pope, after joining Italy earlier in a call for a Geneva meeting of the British, French, American and Italian Foreign Ministers.

The meeting should take place before the July 13 resumption of the Foreign Ministers' conference, a joint Italian-French communiqué stated.

The communiqué also called for closer collaboration among Western European powers, especially on political matters, and with special emphasis in their policy on aid for under-developed countries. This is the great problem of the world in which we live, the communiqué stated.

It said that talks between Gen. de Gaulle and Italian officials had been concerned mainly with the Geneva Foreign Ministers' conference, stressing that "from the start the Italian Government has been regularly and fully informed."

The communiqué made no reference to any new accord between Italy and France, but declared that "there is no difficulty and the collaboration between the two countries is excellent in every field."

Elizabeth and Ike Inaugurate Seaway

MONTREAL (Reuters). — Queen Elizabeth and President Eisenhower on Friday officially opened the St. Lawrence Seaway which the Queen described as "a magnificent monument to the enduring friendship of our two nations."

The 2,300-mile seaway, already in use for a month, links the Atlantic Ocean with the Great Lakes of North America and is a joint enterprise of Canada and the U.S. for their mutual benefit.

For the ceremonial opening, the Queen's 15,000-mile Canadian tour, the hundreds of flags fluttered over the cheering crowd of 30,000 which included 5,000 official guests.

At the ceremony the Queen gave part of her speech in French. He expressed his happiness at being again in Canada in what he called "a single halting sentence of my language, a single prairie brand of that language."

Protest Venezuelan's Attack on Mrs. Meir

JERUSALEM Post Political Reporter. — The Director-General of the Foreign Ministry, Mr. Walter Eytan, on Friday received the Venezuelan Chargé d'Affaires, Mr. R.A.L. Morales.

Although no official comment was made on the meeting, it is believed that Mr. Eytan protested against the unprecedented criticism of Foreign Minister Meir, which was voiced last week in Caracas by the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Dr. Pablo Pérez Alfonzo.

He had attacked Mrs. Meir for her reply at a press conference to a question on the recent oil conference held in Cairo. Mrs. Meir was asked what she thought of Venezuela's participation at that conference. While she declined to comment on that question, she said that as Egypt was not a major oil producer, Cairo was a strange choice for such a conference.

Mrs. Meir also stressed that Iraq, one of the world's chief oil producers was not present.

Mrs. Meir, who is now in Brazil, has declined to comment on Dr. Alfonzo's statement. The Foreign Ministry had also not reacted earlier, participating in an official explanation from Venezuela. The Minister of Venezuela in Jerusalem, Dr. Araujo is at present on home leave.

Adenauer to Speed Restitution

BONN. — The West German Government will discuss concrete ways of speeding up compensation payments to victims of Nazism, it was announced here on Friday after a meeting between Chancellor Adenauer and Dr. Nahum Goldmann, President of the Conference on Jewish Material Claims Against Germany.

World Refugee Year Begins With Prayers

Religious leaders throughout the world are today leading millions of people of many faiths in prayer for the success of the Year of the Refugee.

Pope John, who has urged the world's 475 million Roman Catholics to pray for the success of the Year, is due to make a special broadcast from the Vatican.

The prayers are being said in Europe and 8,000 mainly Catholic churches in 52 countries, timed to coincide with the launching of World Refugee Year by the United Nations.

Prayers this weekend were also offered by Jewish communities throughout the world and by millions of Moslems in Asia and the Middle East.

President Ben-Zvi, in a message to the U.N. pledging Israel's support for the W.R.Y., said that all nations had a duty to care for the refugees. He expressed special concern over the still-unsettled problem of the Arab refugees.

Hopes that the plight of some 30,000 refugees in camps in Europe and Morocco, mainly White Russians, on the Chinese mainland might be solved as the result of funds raised during the year were expressed by Claude de Kemourian, the U.N. Secretary-General's Special Representative for this international effort.

In addition to these, there were 100,000 refugees in Europe "living outside organized camps, 180,000 in Tunisia and Morocco, and one million Chinese in Hong Kong, plus the Arab refugees from Palestine, Mr. Kemourian said.

He said an estimated $25m. would be required to close the camps in Europe and $4.5 to provide transport and housing for those from China.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, in a statement, said that the U.N. was doing everything to support the W.R.Y., said there were 40 million refugees in the world, of whom 15 million still lacked permanent homes.

Ag Arrives in Sweden

On Way to Cairo

STOCKHOLM. — The U.N. Secretary-General, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, arrived from New York on Saturday en route to Cairo where he is due on Tuesday for a two-day stay.

On leaving the U.N. he declined to say whether he had a specific appointment with the Egyptian President, Gamal Abdel Nasser. He stated, "This is one of those visits I make quite often to the Middle East."

Mr. Hammarskjöld, however, had announced he would make the trip to Cairo after his intervention in the case of the Inge Toft — detained in Israel cargo at the entrance to the Suez Canal over a month ago — failed to produce any results.

The Secretary-General next Friday will be in Rome to attend a meeting of the U.N. Economic and Social Council.

Coalition on Verge of Breaking Over Arms Deal with Germany

Ben-Gurion: Will Fulfill Contract

In an interview with the "New York Times" in Tel Aviv on Friday night, Prime Minister Ben-Gurion declared that Israel would fulfill Germany's order for Israel-made armaments, despite efforts to torpedo the deal.

Prime Minister added that he thought the Knesset had no authority to overrule an agreement with a third party which had been duly and lawfully signed by the Government. He said the Knesset could pass a motion of no-confidence if it wished.

Mr. Ben-Gurion said the transaction had been approved unanimously by the Cabinet in December. He said he would on Sunday (today) make public his exchange of letters in May with Abud Ha'avoda.

In addition to economic benefits, the Premier said, the transaction has security implications.

Referring to the close ties between West Germany and France, he said the latter is Israel's closest ally in Europe. He also cited Bonn's position in the Council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the European Common Market.

Mr. Ben-Gurion expressed gratification that Israel-made weapons should have been chosen in competition with arms from other countries, and that West German experts should have found them superior.

Asked whether he had any moral compunction about selling arms to Germany, Mr. Ben-Gurion said: "I distinguish between the Germany of yesterday, and the Germany of today."

He added that no Jew and no decent man could forget what Germany had done to the Jewish people. But now, he said, we are dealing with a changing world and we must look towards the future, not the past.

Mr. Ben-Gurion declared that closer relations with West Germany would strengthen Israel's position economically and politically.

Abud Demand Cancellation; G.Z. Split

By MARK SEGAL, Jerusalem Post Reporter

The Abud Ha'avoda Political Committee on Friday unanimously reasserted the Party's decision to demand the cancellation of the arms transaction with West Germany.

A communiqué issued after its meeting in Tel Aviv said the Committee had "unanimously decided to support the stand of its Ministers, Mr. I. Bar-Yehuda and Mr. M. Carmel, against the transaction."

The Committee resolved that its Ministers and its representatives in the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Security Committee should demand a stop to the sale of arms to Germany now and in the future. The Party's Knesset faction was empowered to act jointly with the Secretariat towards taking "the necessary parliamentary steps on the issue."

The Abud Ha'avoda spokesman denied that the arms transaction had ever been discussed at a Cabinet meeting. "When Abud Ha'avoda sees itself unrestricted by considerations of secrecy, then it will reveal the full truth of the matter," the spokesman stressed that his party had "always remained faithful to its principles as regards relations with Germany."

In our opinion, this present Government should remain in office until the end of its legal tenure. But we believe Mapai cannot impose its policy on the Knesset. We are against our conscience and present to us facts upon which there was no previous discussion," the communiqué concluded.

Coalition on Verge of Breaking Over Arms Deal with Germany

P.M. Invites Opposition Leaders

The Coalition Government is likely to break up after today's Cabinet session if Abud Ha'avoda does not make a last-minute reversal of its decision to demand the cancellation of the Israel-West Germany arms deal.

The issue will be raised in the Knesset on Monday through a non-confidence motion by the Communists and a Herut motion for the agenda calling for cancellation of the deal. If Abud Ha'avoda does not vote against both motions, the Cabinet is expected to resign.

The Prime Minister and Minister of Defense, Mr. David Ben-Gurion, is to raise the extreme gravity of the situation at today's Cabinet meeting and is expected to shed up the conduct of Abud Ha'avoda towards an operation of supreme importance to national security, on which the Cabinet had taken an unanimous decision in December 1954, in the words of a Mapai communiqué.

The communiqué was issued after a meeting on Friday afternoon of all Mapai Cabinet Ministers together with the chairman of the Knesset Faction, Mr. A. Govin. The communiqué said that, after today's Cabinet meeting, Mr. Ben-Gurion intends to publish further documents concerning the whole affair.

At Breaking-Point

Relations between Mapai and Abud Ha'avoda reached breaking point over the weekend, as Mapai charged its coalition partner with "irresponsible" use of the highest level of state security by matters of supreme national importance for electioneering purposes.

The communiqué stressed that Mapai would not refrain from drawing the necessary conclusions regarding the continuation of its coalition partnership with Abud Ha'avoda, if that party's leaders do not halt their irresponsible conduct.

The Mapai Central Committee and Knesset Faction are to convene tonight in Jerusalem for an extraordinary meeting to discuss the situation.

Meeting Opposition

The Prime Minister has invited representatives of the opposition parties, except Herut and the Communists, to meet with him this week, an attempt will be made to inform the details relating to the arms deal.

Should the present coalition Government resign this week, an attempt will be made to form a caretaker Cabinet to take over until the November elections.

Such a Government, which probably would comprise only Mapai and the Progressives, could be voted in by the Knesset. The General Zionists or the National Religious Party abstain. Mapai, the Progressives and Mapai-affiliated Arab parties hold 50 of the 120 Knesset votes.

It should be noted that the present Cabinet would remain in office until a successor receives vote of confidence from the Knesset.

No Comment from Bonn

BONN (Reuters). — The West German Defence Ministry has declined to comment on the deal for the supply of arms by Israel to West Germany.

A spokesman, answering telephoned questions, said on Friday that the Ministry had signed a contract with the Tampella arms firm of Luxembourg for the delivery of a contingent of mortar bombs. He said they would be produced in Israel for the Tampella firm.

The spokesman said the mortar bombs are not anti-tank grenades. He declined to give the number of bombs involved in the deal or to give any further details.

Johansson Batters Patterson, Wrests 'Heavy' Title in 3 Rounds

NEW YORK (Reuter). — Ingemar Johansson, of Sweden, won the world heavyweight championship here on Friday night, slugging Floyd Patterson, the holder, to defeat in less than three rounds.

The referee stopped the 15-minute contest after two minutes and 30 seconds of the third round when the "Gothenburg Giant" had pounded Patterson down seven times.

The crowd in the rain-soaked Yankee Stadium yelled and cheered as Johansson, who had been battered by Patterson's punches, landed a right hand which sent Patterson reeling.

Soon the 24-year-old champion, beaten only once before in his career, was reeling around the ring virtually helpless, blood pouring from his nose.

In the early stages of the fight Johansson jabbed away with his left hand, but in the third round, he slammed the right hand into Patterson's temple which sent the champion slumping to the canvas.

The third and final round was one of the most exciting in the history of the sport. Patterson, cool and calm, kept his left hand in keeping his face, jabbing and throwing a few punches. The referee stepped in and Patterson was sent to the canvas.

Pounded Aside

Patterson, dazed, bewildered and panting, got up at the count of seven on this first occasion and attempted to cover up with his two gloves in front of his face. But that defense was literally
